Make 2017 A Banner Year!

Explore Fiber Journaling

After reading an article about an embroidery artist who documented the year in stitches (tanglewood-threads.blogspot.com), the thought came to do the same thing with felted images.

Many class participants have commented on how therapeutic felting classes have been for them. So, why not offer a series of classes where 2017 can be visually journaled by creating 8"x 9" panels monthly over the year. At the end of the year the panels will be combined and felted into a beautiful long banner for framing or free form hanging. What a great way document the year while getting a little time to yourself!

Don't worry about art experience or ability. Your panel can be abstract or a rendering of something that has happened in your life. Simply bring your ideas to class and explore color and texture. In art there is no right or wrong, especially when it involves self expressionism!

Various studio times will be made available to meet the number of participants and frequency of journaling. Options available will be, every month - 12 panels, bi-monthly - 6 panels, or 4 seasonal panels. The 12 and 6 panel classes will be offered on the first Saturday of each month from 2 - 5 p.m. The 4 panel class will be offered starting Thursday, April 6th.

Your panel can be a scene or an abstract expression of how you're feeling. What do you see depicted in the panel on the right, energy, confusion or excitement?
